

Dear Mr. / Mrs. [name of publisher's rights manager or similar],

I'm writing to ask permission to submit in my institution's repository a digital copy of an article of mine, which was published in your journal:

[journal name], [volume or number], [ISSN]

[authors' names], [date], [title]

The Andrzej Frycz Modrzewski Krakow University's Repository (eRIKA Repository) is a not-for-profit service for academic authors, providing access to the full-text of their publications via <http://repozytorium.ka.edu.pl> website. Full bibliographic details are given for each article, including the journal of original publication, etc.

If possible, I would like to use the finalised pdf version as it appears in print. The pdf version has an advantage over mounting my own version, in that it maintains consistency in appearance of the article wherever it is read. This also maintains a closer association of the article with the Journal, through the running headers and the journal house-style.

I would be grateful if you could contact me to give your permission for including this article and to pass on any conditions that are associated. If it would be possible to use the published pdf version of the article in the following extent:

- a) copy and reproduce the article in any digital format
- b) mount the article in the eRIKA Repository and publicly display it via Internet for non-commercial purposes only then please confirm this and if possible, send the proper pdf file.

Thank you for your attention with this and I look forward to hearing from you.

Regards,
